The flipped classroom

Flipped Classroom

Active Learning

You will take part in a variety of interactive online and face-to-face activities

Deep Learning

You will learn through practical problem-solving activities which help with knowledge retention

Collaboration

You will develop collaboration skills through classroom-based group work and discussions

Feedback

You will receive immediate feedback on your progress through interactive quizzes and activities

Higher retention of knowledge, for longer periods of time

What worries you about flipping?

Time

- It takes time... loads of time
- Be prepared to be flexible
- “Will I have the time to learn how to do it and do it?”

Manage students expectations

- This is true for any programme of study
- Teach less content (facts): do students really need to know everything??
- Think outside the box: dare to take risks and be prepared to fail ~~to~~ succeed and

Technology enhanced learning

- It does work! There are lots of case studies with very positive results
- Support by Instructional Designers (IDs) and training is really important

Resources!

- Market research and a good business plan is essential

What have the benefits been?

- Blank canvas: designed the curriculum 'from scratch' and constructively aligned LOs and assessments
- Ability to adjust the pace/content to student's needs – can go further
- Create creators – work relevant activities enable them to be professional; empower students with own learning
- Let them chose learning activities: akin to Montessori schools
- Real-time feedback: pick it up where the student has left/ re-route when necessary
- Fun and challenging for the Team members teaching on the ground

BMB = Small BIG team!

Lesson 2 of 8

Overview of session

In September 1971, an extraordinary little boy was born in Houston, Texas, USA. His name was David Phillip Vetter and he was born without a functional immune system. He suffered from what is referred to as X-linked severe combined immunodeficiency (SCID), a congenital disease that leads to an individual having no T cells, no NK

The process

Lessons learnt

- Flipping a lecture is hard work! But there are many ways of doing it and it is ever so rewarding!!
- Some things work, some don't – prepare to be prepared to adapt and change.
- Learning spaces are critical (visibility, acoustics, mobility)
- Support staff to configure rooms is a real need or rooms that are designed for large numbers of students working in groups
- It's a team effort!
- Once you flip, there is no going back!
